

April 2020

Everyday Environment Webinar Series

In response to many people being at home during the COVID- 19 event, an educator in the Unit along with others statewide initiated a weekly webinar environmental series. Called the Everyday Environment Series, these webinars are providing new information to help people have a positive impact on the environment.

The weekly webinars are scheduled from April 9th until June 25th, 2020. At the time of this writing there have been two webinars conducted, one on atmospheric optics (Sky Spectacles) and the other on coyotes. Both webinars have reached their maximum registrations of 300.

For those not able to watch the live webinar, each one is being transferred to a YouTube video (including closed captioning).

An email from one registrant said the following: "I have been watching for your webinar on YouTube. It was just an awesome program. I believe the Environmental Series is so far the best and most informative series that U of IL Extension has offered in some time. Thank you so much. Looking forward to the rest of the series."

For more information contact Duane Friend at friend@illinois.edu