

Farmer's Market Informational Booths

Master Gardeners attend both the Princeton and the Spring Valley Farmer's Markets over the summer months as a community service. The booths offer the public the opportunity to ask volunteers about horticultural questions during the height of the growing season. Additionally, the public can learn about the Master Gardener program and submit requests for more detailed information on horticultural topics.

Master Gardener volunteers attending the informational booth at the Princeton Farmer's market, summer 2018.