4-H ANIMAL WELFARE

During fair season, 4-H members have an opportunity to showcase our practice of ethical and humane treatment of animals and demonstrate our commitment to safe food production practices. While showing livestock, we are under the watchful eye of the public. Many people attending a local fair may have no idea how livestock is raised. Practicing these guidelines may prevent public misconceptions about livestock production.

1. Provide fresh, clean water to animals at all times. Feed animals on schedule.
2. Keep your pens clean and dry with good bedding at all times.
3. Take extra care on days of extreme weather or activity.
4. Sort and load animals safely and with concern for them.
5. Train animals to lead or be handled at a young age long before the fair.
6. Arrange for veterinary care in case of an animal emergency.
7. Handle animals in a very humane way.
8. Adhere to all antibiotic, drug, and feed additive withdrawal times.
9. Avoid stressing the animal.
10. Keep animals clean; a clean animal is viewed as a healthy animal.
11. Use show sticks, whips, and canes for showing only and never forcefully hit an animal.
12. Review your 4-H project manual and follow the care recommendations.
13. Have a plan of action should a problem arise, and know which fair official or 4-H leader to contact to help solve it or answer questions.
14. Some words, such as "slaughter" or "killed," may cause a negative reaction from people unfamiliar with food production. IF ASKED what happens to your market animal after the fair, consider using words such as "harvested" or "sold to packing company."
15. If questioned or challenged by a stranger or group:
 - a. Remain calm, be polite, and answer any question the best you can. If you do not know an answer, tell them you will find an adult to explain more.
 - b. Do not argue or confront an individual or group who may have a different view about livestock production. Individuals may try to initiate a confrontation and use video of the incident on social media. If confronted, walk away, find an adult in authority, or call 911 if you feel threatened.
 - c. It is natural to think that giving people information will change their minds, but in some extreme cases, people may not want to learn; they want to confront to gain media attention. It is best to walk away without engaging in these situations.

Following these recommendations will reflect a positive image of our livestock industry and the 4-H program, as well as demonstrate the solid animal stewardship practices that are our 4-H tradition.

Talking Points Best Practices:

- Don't feel obligated to speak "on the record" – it's fine to politely decline an interview or to decline to speak unofficially on a topic
- Appoint a spokesperson for your county to handle the tougher questions – The county superintendent of your species is a good point person for addressing tougher questions and topics. If any statements or questions make you feel uncomfortable, don't hesitate to ask an adult for help
- Don't feel like you have to respond to unfamiliar facts or statistics – if a fact or statistic comes up that you are not familiar with, it's perfectly fine to say, "That's not something I'm familiar with," or "I can't speak to that, but I can speak to xyz."

Talking Points

Why do youth show livestock at the fair?

Exhibiting livestock is a visual appraisal of the hard work, care, and dedication youth go through as part of the educational process of livestock projects. Showing livestock teaches youth the value of hard work, dedication, sportsmanship, communication skills, work ethic, and more.

Don't you think it is unfair to keep your animal tied up/in pens/in stalls all day?

Animals are able to change positions and lie down throughout the day. Youth ensure their animals are comfortable by making sure they have access to food and water, clean bedding, and fans for air circulation.

Isn't the extreme heat or high temperatures going to bother your animal?

Youth take extra precautions for their animals during extreme heat, much the same as people need to take extra precautions when the weather is very hot. Animals have fans and space to allow air movement, clean and dry bedding, and tarps and draping to protect from the sun. If needed, youth can take their animals out to the wash rack to rinse them down during the hottest part of the day. Often during extreme heat, youth will hand water animals vs. having water sit out. This ensures access to cooler, cleaner water and youth can monitor how much water the animals are actually getting to make sure they're staying hydrated.

Why doesn't your animal have any food or water?

Youth carefully monitor animal rations – allowing for overfeeding can make the animals too warm. Hand watering the animals also allows youth to monitor how much water they are getting and provides cooler, cleaner water vs. water that sits out.

READY TO DOWNLOAD?

Open up your camera app and scan the QR code. You can also head to go.illinois.edu/4HFair for clickable links to download the app from the website, through iOS iTunes download or through Google Play for Android.

FOR A STEP BY STEP OF WHAT TO DO AFTER YOU SCAN

1

CHOOSE YOUR PHONE TYPE

After the QR code opens, choose your download type.

2

OPEN THE APP

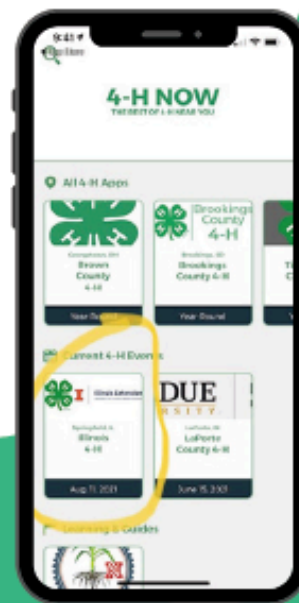

The app is called "4-H Now," and the icon looks like what's below

3

OPEN THE STATE FAIR EVENT

After you open the app, you'll see this screen, just choose the event highlighted below.

If you don't see the event on the home screen, just search "Illinois 4-H" in the search bar on the top left of the screen.

4

ALLOW NOTIFICATIONS

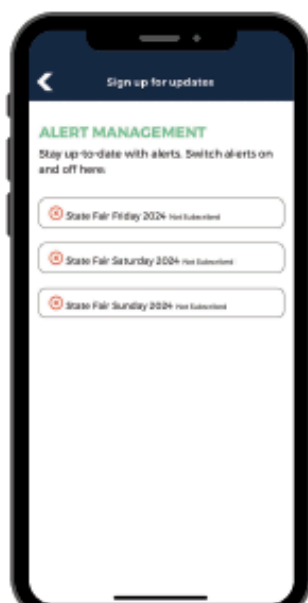

Please choose to allow notifications, so you can get push notifications about any updates or alerts throughout the event.

5

CHOOSE YOUR ALERTS

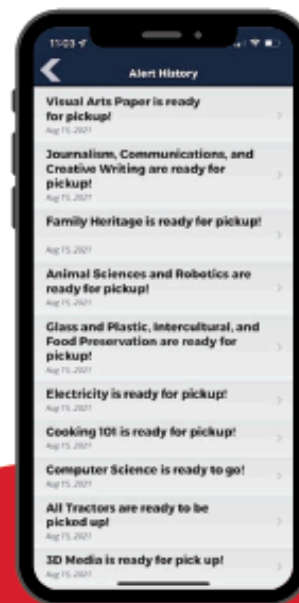

Scroll to "Alert Management" from the main screen of the app. Toggle "on" the days you would like to receive alerts.

6

USING THE APP

Notifications during the event will push to your phone, so if you're actively using it, you'll see a pop-up on your screen, but it may also go to your notifications center.

You can always check past alerts in the app by going to the main menu in the app and alert history

ILLINOIS STATE FAIR LIVESTOCK SHOWS

The Illinois State Fair Livestock Premium Book is available online:
<https://statefair.illinois.gov/competitions/competitive-events/livestock-events.html>
This website will provide you with all the information you need, including health requirements, passes, etc.

Entries can now be done online: <https://statefair.illinois.gov/competitions/competitive-events.html>
Although State Fair shows are Junior and Open shows (not 4-H), they still require verification from Extension staff that you are an active 4-H member.

NEW this year! All beef and swine exhibitors at the State Fair will be required to have an Electronic ID. These can currently be obtained from your Veterinarian. Please be sure to allow ample time to get these before the state shows. (Note: this may be required at the county level next year).
